

Loading an Exam

- Click Load PDF
- Select your PDF file
- For best results, the PDF should be screenshots of the NBME exam. For example:

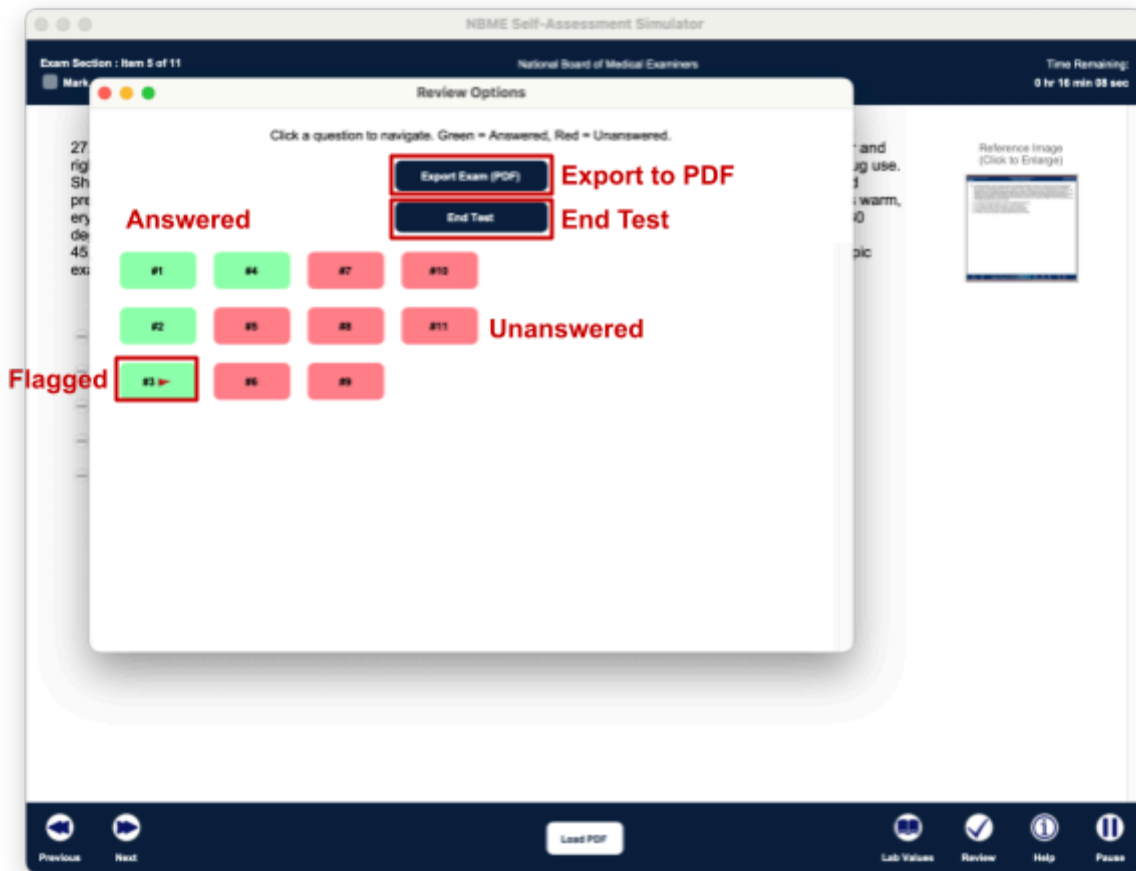

- The file will go through the Optical Character Recognition (OCR) software and the text that it finds will be formatted into questions and their corresponding answer choices.
 - Processing typically takes a few seconds per question, so bigger files may take a few minutes to go through.
 - The software isn't perfect, so some text may be garbled or some questions will not be included! Any questions not included due to processing issues will be noted before the exam starts.

Taking the Test

- When you start the exam, the timer will start with a total time of 90s x # of questions correctly processed. (If this time runs out, you can choose to continue taking the test and can treat it as "untimed").
- Each question has a preview of its associated PDF page on the right side of the screen. This works as a reference for images that are included with the question or if the text is garbled (especially for questions with tables). Click on the preview to enlarge the image.

- Features:
 - Answer Strike-out: Hold `Ctrl` and click on an answer text to cross it out. Click again with the modifier key to remove the strike-out.
 - Question Highlighting: Click and drag your mouse over any text in the question box to highlight it in yellow. To remove a highlight, simply click anywhere on the existing yellow highlighted text.
 - Marking Questions: Check the Mark box in the top-left corner to flag a question for later review.
 - Lab Values: Use the Lab Values button at the bottom of the screen to open a table of NBME lab values for reference.

- Review Tool:
 - The Review button on the bottom of the screen will open a window showing all the questions in the exam.
 - Clicking any button in the review grid will navigate you to that question.
 - The questions are displayed as follows:
 - Green = Answered
 - Red = Unanswered
 - Flag = Marked for review

End of the Exam

- When you end the exam (when the timer runs out, from the review window, or by hitting next on the last question), the exam enters “Review Mode”.
- All answer choices, highlighters, and checkboxes will be locked to prevent further changes while you review your work.
- From the “Review” window, you can export your exam to a PDF that will save the highlighting, strike-out, and answer choices for you to review or annotate at a later time.
